

st session), the practice was never to be systematic: to work or walk in a straight line, to generalize theory, an ultimate grand set down a fantasy. And then to induce a research project. The fantasy for this of living together that would accommodate the individual rhythms of its community. Allowing for something like concerns, which might be one way of describing to myself what I think I am doing here.

Now I love
this idea